Soccer season kicks off, in Florida

FC Edmonton is ready for their inaugural season in the North American Soccer League. Players and coaches gathered at the Victoria Soccer Centre yesterday to unveil the jerseys, featuring the team's major sponsor Sears Financial. They kick off the season on the road, playing in Florida on Saturday. The team will play at home for the first time on April 27 at Commonwealth Stadium. The rest of their games will take place at Foote Field. The team played six pre-season matches, the last three which they won, said Kooy. Story, page 4.

ASIRT looking at second fatal police shooting

► Man behaved aggressively toward officer, who responded to training: Police ► EPS say officer involved 'traumatized,' given the day off work

ASIRT is investigating after a man was shot and killed by police early Thursday behind his apartment building near 100 Avenue and 155 Street.

Police said the officer, who shot twice, did so only after the man came toward officers in an aggressive manner when they approached him in his car.

But family members, who identify the man as 39-year-old Kinling Robin Fire, question why EPS members would shoot to kill a man they insist was unarmed.

Faye Bitternose remembered her uncle as a kind and gentle soul, and "an amazing father to his 10-year-old son, who would give you the last dollar."

"He was the type of person who would help out anyone who needed him," Bitternose told Metro Thursday.

Family members said Fire was distraught and may have taken pills before leaving in his PT Cruiser about 11 p.m. Police reportedly encountered him when he returned just after midnight.

Acting Insp. Chris Epler said early Thursday officers shot when he "aggressed the members."

Acting Police Chief Darryl da Costa later told reporters Thursday the officer acted accordingly, but would not say what the weapon was Fire was brandishing.

"We need to be concerned about the safety of the members and the public and we wouldn't want to mitigate them using the necessary amount of force to deal with whatever threat they face," said da Costa.

Da Costa said an investigation will reveal if officers acted according to EPS policies in the incident.

This is the second fatal shooting at the hands of police this year. In February, Cyrus Green, 17, was fatally shot by police in a restaurant parking lot near 118 Avenue and Wayne Gretzky Drive after police say he came at officers with a baseball bat. ● SHELLEY WILLIAMSON WITH FILES FROM HEATHER MCINTYRE

Victim's blood found on accused's clothing, Twitchell trial hears

A DNA expert says a novice filmmaker accused of killing a man to mirror one of his movie scripts had the victim's blood on his belt and shoes when he was arrested by Edmonton police.

The expert told jurors at Mark Twitchell's first-degree murder trial Thursday that Johnny Altlinger's blood also turned up on a military knife and a duffel bag found in Twitchell's car.

Twitchell is accused of killing Altlinger on Oct. 10, 2008, cutting up his body, burning the parts and dumping his remains down a manhole. The Crown alleges the crime followed one of Twitchell's movie scripts in which a man is lured over the Internet and attacked.

Robert Schimpf, a DNA scientist for the RCMP, also testified that tests show Altlinger's blood was found on a meat cleaver, a saw and a set of knives from a wild-game-butcherling kit found in a garage Twitchell had rented.

"This was single-source genetic profile that matches that of Johnny Brian Altlinger," Schimpf said.

Altlinger's blood was also found on a metal pipe and on a pair of jeans found in Twitchell's home, he said.

Earlier Thursday, forensics experts said a description found on Twitchell's laptop about what it was like to cut up a human body is realistic.

Dr. Bernard Bannach, an assistant chief medical examiner, told court how members of his team recovered parts of a human torso, teeth and other remains from a sewer in Edmonton last June — but not a head. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Taxes to pay for arena: Report

- Nearly 30 downtown blocks would be subject to revitalization levy
- City says existing tax money in area will stay in general revenue

@METRONEWS.CA

Property taxes from new development will fund part of the proposed downtown arena, says a new city report.

The city has said a community revitalization levy (CRL) could generate $160 million over 20 years, of which $125 million would be put toward the proposed $450-million arena.

The CRL boundary was released Thursday, stretching from 109 Street to 97 Street and from 102 Avenue to 106 Avenue.

City manager Simon Farbrotter said there has been steady growth downtown over the past decade, and the report says there will be a greater demand for both housing and commercial space in the coming years.

City council will discuss the information Wednesday, but it's not yet clear if they will make a decision on the project.

"CRLs are not guaranteed," said Coun. Tony Caterina. "They haven't explained anything on the risks involved in the cost overruns.... These are things we need to know."

He added a CRL for Fort Road and another yet to be approved for The Quarters haven't generated any revenue yet.

Project funding

1 A ticket surcharge could fund another $125 million. City CFO Lorna Rosen said the current tax would have to be increased to help cover the mortgage over the first decade until enough development has occurred through the CRL.

The Town of Three Hills, Alta., is standing behind embattled owner Lynn Gustafson, whose roadside attraction, Guzoo, came under massive social media fire this week.

"It's a very unique place," said Wiebe, whose husband Vernon sits on town council for the 3,322-person municipality, notes they both support Gustafson. "The man is a very loving person, and that's the way he treats animals," she added.

Wiebe said she has never had a concern about conditions at Guzoo and that her grandson's stepson volunteers at the zoo, where she feels "animals are given a better chance to live" because of its rural

"We play in the winter outside (in Holland)," Baart said with a laugh.

That isn't the case in Edmonton. In fact, the team has been training hard at the Victoria Soccer Centre over the past four months.

While most members of the 23-player roster are Canadian — seven are Albertan — some of the six international players are more than ready for the outdoor season to arrive.

"It's a little bit cold," Conrad Smith said with a laugh. "But I like the mixed weather."

It's not the first time Smith, from Trinidad and Tobago, has experienced a chilly winter, as he played for the Mustangs when Calgary had a pro team.

Police are investigating what may be Edmonton's 16th homicide, after an employee found a body in a grove of trees behind the 11th fairway at Riverside Golf Course on Thursday.

Edmonton Police Service spokesperson Patricia Thenu said officers responded after the body of a male was discovered at about 12:45 p.m. EPS has not called it homicide.

"It's not confirmed suspicious at this point, but homicide detectives are treating it as suspicious," Thenu said.

At the scene, Insp. Denis Jubenville said police think the events that led to the death occurred recently.

Bus crash report not good enough, says father

The father of a young Calgary girl who was involved in a 2007 school bus crash said the recommendations from a recently released fatality inquiry are not good enough.

Biagio "Joe" Magliocca's daughter Amanda was riding to school with 11 other students when their bus struck a parked gravel truck on Crowchild Trail in Calgary. Amanda's best friend, Kathelynn Occena, 9, was killed in the crash.

A judge who headed the inquest says all drivers should have to disclose health issues, list medications they're on and submit to random drug tests.

"If it was their child, this wouldn't be good enough," said Magliocca of the report, adding he's still in contact with Occena's mother.

"I know her mother is extremely pissed."

He said his daughter has not ridden a school bus or even a Calgary Transit bus since the incident.

Alberta Transportation is reviewing the report.

Market to feed need in southwest

► Talks ongoing to use Lillian Osbourne High School parking lot

@METRONEWS.CA

There is a market in southwest Edmonton that is going untapped, and a group of volunteers are feeding it.

The Southwest Edmonton Farmers' Market should open in May, says Corrina Chetley-Irwin.

Following a survey last February that more than 940 people completed, with 230 indicating interest, a non-profit group was formed to start a market.

Most in the area go to Old Strathcona, Collingwood or Mill Woods for farmers' markets.

"The most popular (are) Old Strathcona and downtown," said Chetley-Irwin. "(But) we're really concentrated on keeping it as local as possible."

The early-bird deadline to sign up as a vendor was

Thursday, but the market will have approximately 60 stalls. Those interested can visit swefm.ca to apply.

The market will be Alberta-approved, meaning 80 per cent of the products will be made, baked or grown here.

A $1B PROMISE FOR

- Ignatieff says he will spend millions on daycare
- How will he pay for it? Corporate taxes face hikes

Michael Ignatieff says a Liberal government would spend up to $1 billion per year to fund more child care and early learning spaces across Canada.

It would be a simpler program than the often-promised, never-completed national daycare system promised by various Liberal governments dating back to 1993.

The Liberal leader said this proposal would get money flowing quickly to the provinces for childcare spaces instead of creating complex new bureaucracies.

The new idea is to let provinces and territories simply draw money from an Early Childhood Learning and Care Fund, to hire more teachers and open

Past pledges

Past Liberal leaders have promised different incarnations of the child-care plan over the years.

- In the 2008 election campaign, then-Liberal leader Stéphane Dion promised $1.2 billion per year for child care.
- Before that, Paul Martin's Liberal government was working with provinces on a national system that would receive $5 billion from Ottawa over five years.
- The Liberals' proposed national plan was scrapped when the Harper government took office in 2006.

more spots for kids stuck on preschool waiting lists.

The Liberals say they would start with a $500-million investment in the first year, rising to $1 billion by the fourth year.

"We want to focus on what the issue is: Long lists, parents desperate to get their children into a great early learning and child-care experience," Ignatieff said during a stop in Winnipeg. "We want to get this done as quickly as possible."

But senior Liberal aides weren't able to provide many details about the fund — including how it would be paid for.

They simply claimed "better choices" would help afford it.

Some of that money would come from hiking corporate taxes. The Liberals figure they will rake in another $6 billion per year by raising the business tax to last year's rate of 18 per cent from the current 16.5 per cent.

Frustrated scribes say the PM is no treat

The yellow steel fence that kept reporters far from Stephen Harper in Halifax Thursday was a potent symbol of his election campaign.

Harper is running a tight travelling show with little room for spontaneity, where national media are limited to four questions per day — and kept a safe distance from the Conservative leader.

Harper was pressed by frustrated reporters to explain the strict control of his campaign and his reluctance to answer more questions, in contrast to the dozens that are taken by his rivals.

"If there are other subjects I'm not addressing, I'll take 'em. What's the subject, one subject?" Harper said, ignoring the question about the limits placed on the media.

National media are paying $11,000 per person per week to travel with Harper.

But six days into the campaign, he has still not greeted the 25 reporters and TV technicians traveling aboard his campaign plane.

His wife, Laureen, ambled to the back of the aircraft late Wednesday night to offer chocolate-covered treats.

William: Hair to the throne

► As wedding draws near, Prince William can't escape talk of bald spot

Prince William looks like someone who has it all: Royal status, a charming fiancée, good health and an easy touch with his future subjects. But there is one thing he lacks: A full head of hair.

Casual observers who have not paid much attention to Britain's future king in the years before his recent engagement to Kate Middleton have been surprised by the extent of the 28-year-old's hair loss.

William still cuts a tall,

"He's got the prince appeal and I don't think ... the lack of hair can ever take that away."

JENNIFER ENGELHART, 19-YEAR-OLD STUDENT

imposing figure, but his bald spot has been spreading as his hairline recedes.

It's even more apparent since his 26-year-old brother, Prince Harry, still sports a luxuriant supply of tousted red hair.

The British tabloids have been merciless in their coverage, constantly punning the "hair to the throne" theme, and comparing his hair loss to that of his father, Prince Charles, and the follicly challenged prime minister, David Cameron. William's receding hairline has a genetic link. His father, Charles, and his grandfather, Prince Philip, also experienced it, though at a slower pace.

PUBLIC MOBILE

Telecom firm eyes takeovers

Public Mobile expects at least one of the two other new players in Canada's wireless market to run out of money by the end of the year, presenting the company with a possible expansion opportunity, CEO Alek Krstajic said Thursday in Toronto. He was referring to Wind Mobile and Mobility and acknowledged that he has made calls to them. Consolidation among the three companies is possible because there are no federal rules to prevent it, he said.

Telecom analyst Mark Goldberg said he expects there will be "some degree" of consolidation in the wireless industry due to the "remarkable" number of wireless players in Canadian cities.

Krstajic wouldn't say how many subscribers Public Mobile has, but said the Toronto-based company will soon offer email plans and a voice-only plan to try to win more customers.

Social media mean business

► Small companies slowly catching on to the benefits of digital marketing

With some of the fastest broadband connections in the world, most Canadians have embraced the Internet. Yet small businesses are late to the table when it comes to online marketing.

"The gap between where consumers are and where businesses are in terms of Internet use is greater than I expected," says Chris O'Neill, managing director of Google Canada.

O'Neill says digital media offer an easy way to track consumer awareness of one's business. But only one million or so Canadian small businesses have a website, out of a total of about 2.2 million, he says.

ment for digital advertising, a recent study of email versus direct-mail costs by digital agency Quitative Inc. found email to be 60 times more cost-effective. And online ad revenue is "rapidly closing in on daily newspaper ad revenue," says the Interactive Advertising Bureau of Canada.

Promod Sharma of Etobicoke, Ont., is one of 15 million Canadians with a Facebook page. He's on Twitter and LinkedIn, and has a website for his insurance business, Taxevity.

But it took him a while to understand the value of social media.

"Then I saw that Twitter was a way to drive traffic to my blog," he says, which in turn was a way to attract customers to his business.

Music provider in an expansive mood

Mood Media Corp. will partner with the Argos department-store chain in Britain to sell CDs and DVDs aimed at babies and toddlers. The Fisher-Price branded educational videos will be sold in an Argos catalogue to be released in July.

The companies did not disclose the monetary value of the deal.

Argos is the U.K.'s No. 1 toy retailer, with 700 locations across Britain.

Toronto-based Mood Media works in 800 retail chains including Wal-Mart, Polo, Hilton hotel group and Abercrombie & Fitch in 30 countries and provides them with in-store music and visual or scented products.

In the past few weeks it bought American elevator-music pioneer Muzak for $345 million US and announced a deal to provide music and sound systems to McDonald's restaurants in Poland. It also bought a Finnish background music provider.

5 MINUTES WITH: ROD PHILLIPS

The original "voice of the Oilers" signed off for the last time Tuesday, when the Edmonton Oilers played the Los Angeles Kings. The team didn't manage to score a goal for Rod Phillips in a 2-0 loss, but the Oilers did recognize him during a pre-game ceremony. The game was Phillips' 10th of the year, which will be featured on a DVD of historic games that will be available after this season. Phillips, from the town of Calmar, south of Edmonton, began broadcasting games in 1973. He retired after the 2009-10 season — and 3,542 games.

What has it been like to call

Rod's Classics this season? I've really enjoyed it. When I decided to retire last year at the end of last season, the Oilers came to me with this proposal and it sounded like it would be a lot of fun. And it has been because I've been able to include my wife. She's been with me on all the road games that we have done and so she was able to see some cities that she's never been to before. I think that both Debbie and myself have had a great time.
Did you think your career with the Oilers would span 37 years? When I first started doing the games in 1973, I was very new at it. I had literally no experience calling radio hockey ... so I was hoping for 37 games when I first started and it turned out to be 37 years. But when I first started, it was kind of a game-to-game thing to see how I would do. And I was talking enough that I kept improving, and I got to the point where it seemed to make a little bit of sense.

What was your favourite game to call? It would be hard to pick one, but the first Stanley Cup that the Oilers won in 1984 (when) they beat the

New York Islanders by a score of 5-2 and won the championship. That one — I mean, that was a fantastic moment for not only the Oilers organization, but for myself and, of course, the entire city of Edmonton.

How has retirement been treating you?

I have a home in Phoenix.... I've been in Arizona all winter. My wife has been back and forth because she still owns her business. But I've been enjoying the desert climate, playing a lot of golf and just having a great time.

Since October, independent dealer Steve Strand has been offering a gift card for a $125 pistol or $115 shotgun and a free background check to customers who sign up for two-year Dish Network packages.

Those not interested in the firearms can opt for a $50 pizza gift certificate.

"RadioShack has taken the position that we're tarnishing their brand image with the promotion," he said. "I don't think this is a negative impact. I don't think they understand the way of life

In an attempt to appease the company, Strand has taken down the sign in his window that said: "Protect yourself with Dish Network. Sign up now, get free gun."

In its place is a sign advertising a website Strand set up detailing the promotion, GetaGun.net.

Don't Hop to it

► Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of Hop ► There isn't much for the adults in this kid's film, even with a cameo by David Hasselhoff

Richard Crouse: Mark, to me Hop feels more like an hour-and-a-half advertisement for plush stuffed bunnies than it does a movie. EB and his bunny and Easter chick friends are cute but clearly more time was spent on the marketing angle than the story. What did you think?

Mark Breslin: Richard, let's face it; we've lost the battle when it comes to marketing of characters in kids' movies. I now just assume that the movie is a promo for the spending to come. A five-year-old will be transfixed by the eye candy onscreen; the question is whether there's anything for their parents to enjoy. In movies like Toy Story or Shrek, there's plenty. But in this one, Richard? What do you think?

Plot synopsis

Hop begins on Easter Island, home base of the Easter Bunny (voice of Hugh Laurie) and his son EB (Russell Brand). On the other side of the planet, Fred O'Hare (James Marsden) is an unemployed So-Cal slacker house sitting for his sister's wealthy

RC: The humour and broad acting style is directed at little kids, yet the movie is rated PG, which means that parents can't just send their kids solo. Grown-ups might get a chuckle out of EB's jelly-bean gag — he poops jelly-beans and says at one point, "I just jellybeaned all over your dreams" — but the odd cameo from David Hasselhoff — he's going for the William Shatner self-aware shtick — is as funny as you'd boss. Both EB and Fred have one thing in common — daddy issues. When EB and Fred hook up in Hollywood, the pair discovers they might be able to help one another out and save Easter in the process.

► Ratings:
Richard: Ⓛ

imagine a cameo from The Hoff to be. There's not much here for anyone over four years old. Harvey this ain't.

MB: No, but I did enjoy the look of the movie, all primary colours and a few visual gags that popped up just often enough to keep me from losing my mind. The oddest part of the movie was the casting, and not just Hasselhoff. I thought Russell Brand, the comedian du jour, had been so neutered he was wasted in the part (and I don't mean wasted in the usual Russell Brand way). Couldn't the part have been done by Any Brit?

RC: If this had even a little bit of edge I could see why they chose him, but as it seems like he's only there because Ricky Gervais and Eddie Izzard were too busy or too clever to take the role. I actually had some hope for Hop when I heard Brand was involved because I thought he might bring something interesting to it. Instead it is just average, which is a shame given how kid's flicks have made strides in recent years away from treating kids like they're stupid.

MB: Of course to the four-year-old sitting next to me, it was Citizen Kane

The best thing about Source Code is that it represents what science fiction films should be. This isn't a brain dead blow 'em up with ray guns, but a clever thought experiment woven into an action movie.

The film stars Jake Gyllenhaal as a soldier in a secret government experiment that allows him to repeatedly relive the last eight minutes in the life of a victim of a terrorist attack in the hopes of discovering the man responsible and preventing a subsequent bombing. It's kind of like a sci-fi/thriller variation on Groundhog Day with the hero trying to save a city rather than lighten up.

Duncan Jones directs, and while it feels like a step down intellectually from his excellent 2009 debut Moon, he does get to strut his stuff as an action director. Jones nimbly balances the thrills and heady concepts for the most part, but the script wraps up in a rather pat and sentimental manner that feels somewhat cheap. Still, despite stumbling across the finish line, Source Code is easily one of the most intriguing films to emerge from Hollywood this year.

Don't go into James Wan's latest horror thriller Insidious and expect Saw. Sure, it was that franchise making 2001 hit that put Wan (and writer Leigh Whannell) on the map, but Wan ain't a one trick torture porn pony. Insidious sees the filmmaker mining the elegance of classic supernatural shockers like Burnt Offerings and Poltergeist while sculpting a contemporary ghost story that is as gorgeously produced as it is blood-freezingly frightening. And to its credit, there's not a single drop of blood spilled....

Rose Byrne and Patrick Watson star as parents under the strain of

Of the films based on Charlotte Bronte's beloved 19th century novel of madness on the moors, this may be the most realistic. It's bleak, slow and grim, like life in those forbidding stone piles where Jane has spent her sad life. The deadly artifice of society threatens her as much as her escapes into the harsh natural world outside. Wasikowska isn't up to playing the steel-willed literary heroine and seems mismatched with Fassbender's dark magnetism.

Mirren tackles comedy

Actress enjoyed the chance to get to be funny with her charming Arthur co-star Russell Brand Said it's hard not to fall under Brand's spell

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

Though she may be an award-winning movie star best known for playing royalty, Helen Mirren isn't above playing the lottery.

"When the lottery gets really big — up to 40 or 50 million — I go out and buy a ticket, because it's, 'Maybe I'll win.' You fantasize about what it would be like to have millions and millions and millions of dollars," she says. "And I think we all do that. It's a fantasy we all carry within us — anyone who's ever bought a lottery ticket. We're all dreamers."

Of course, Mirren herself doesn't have to dream. While in her latest film, an update of the Dudley Moore classic Arthur, Mirren plays the nanny to an extravagantly rich man-child (Russell Brand) prone to outlandish purchases, in real life she's no stranger to splurging.

"My husband and I bought a castle in Puglia," she says. "It's like turning on the tap full, and just money pours out. Into the desert. It's just gone."

While Arthur marks what Mirren says is her first real comedy film in her career, teaming up with Brand helped ease her into the genre. In fact, she may have picked up more than a little of his wit, if her description of Brand's behaviour on set is any indication.

"He never came out of his trailer. When he came out, he was always surrounded by minders, he wouldn't speak to anyone," she says, barely containing her laughter. "No, he didn't really. Well actually, I don't know because I was drunk the whole time."

But seriously, though, she thinks quite highly of Brand and his charms, explaining that she signed onto the film after the comedian "just totally seduced me the way he does, you know?" she says. "I just defy any male or female or child or ancient person to spend two hours with Russell and not be completely charmed and say, 'Yeah, fine, I'll do whatever you want.'"

Immortalized in cement

Helen Mirren has clearly had an impressive career as an actress, but it wasn't until very recently that she felt she'd truly arrived when she left imprints of her hands and feet in the cement in front of Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood. "Becoming a Dame, fantastic. Winning an Oscar, amazing. Hands and feet? Incredible," Mirren says. NED EHRBAR

Show set to Kill the competition

- AMC's newest drama The Killing offers uniquely sharp focus
- Series revolves around single homicide

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Swedish actor Joel Kinnaman moved to Hollywood and ended up becoming part of a TV show — The Killing — that is based on a hit Danish series, and filming in a location — Vancouver — similar to Scandinavia. Certainly a long way to travel to end up in familiar settings.

"The series (Forbrydelsen) originated in Scandinavia and this part of the U.S. and Canada (the Pacific Northwest) has a similar climate," Kinnaman told Metro, adding that the grey, coldness of both areas impact the people.

Kinnaman, who's name recognition in North America is small despite a large list of hit movies in his home country, moved to Los Angeles about three to four months prior to his audition for AMC's newest series The Killing. Kinnaman plays Stephen Holder, a new addition to the Seattle homicide division, who, along with his partner Sarah Linden, portrayed by Mireille Enos (Big Love), investigate the homicide of teenager Rosie Larsen. Kinnaman said the writing in the pilot drew him to the series.

"I thought (the writing) was very strong," he said. "It was heart-gripping and exciting. All of the characters felt layered."

This includes his character Stephen Holder, who's rough-edges are a sharp contrast to his partner.

"He knows the streets and he understands people. He doesn't have the regular keys to a proper social upbringing. He is struggling with a lot of old mistakes."

And while Stephen and Sarah butt heads at times, Kinnaman says he believes that deep down Stephen knows that he needs his partner to succeed.

With AMC's line up of critical favourites Mad Men, The Walking Dead and Breaking Bad, expectations are high for The Killing, and it does not disappoint.

"While I was shooting the pilot I was talking to my parents back home in Sweden and they were watching the original on TV at the time. They were absolutely addicted to the original series," Kinnaman said. "That series just struck gold."

The two-part series premiere of The Killing airs Sunday, 9 p.m. on AMC.

All of the skill and hilarity of the hit show Wipeout is getting a northern twist.

Wipeout Canada, which premieres Sunday on TV-Tropolis, features 260 Canadians taking on the famous Wipeout course, completing a series of obstacles to claim the $50,000 prize.

The show had 45,000 Canadian applicants in one month.

"What stuck out for the audition process were personalities," said co-host Ennis Esmer. "Whether it was [someone who] studied fire ants or a 60-year-old naked-volleyball-playing grandmother."

Esmer claims the contestants are what make the show so popular and give the show its identity.

A few of the obstacles the contestants will face are racing through "topple towers," bouncing on the infamous "big balls" and climbing across the "sucker punch wall."

"I think everyone still has that little kid in them and it's just like a great big playground," said fellow co-host Jessica Phillips.

The contestants all have various plans of what they would do if they won the money.

While some said they would use the money to pay off debt or tuition, there were some more interesting answers.

Murder, mistresses and the pope on TV's The Borgias

► New 15th century drama depicts moral ambiguities of 'first crime family' ► Premieres Sunday on Bravo!

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Actor Colm Feore is up for almost anything — be it a lavish TV period drama, a summer blockbuster or a small Canadian documentary series.

"I do whatever it takes to keep the kids in shoe leather," says Feore, best known for such diverse works as 32 Short Films About Glenn Gould and Pearl Harbor.

"And I have to keep myself interested of course. It's always about what interests me."

What currently interests him is The Borgias, a 15th century TV drama about Rodrigo Borgia (Jeremy Irons), who would become Pope Alexander VI.

Far from being a costumed tale of courtly manners, The Borgias is being promoted as "the first crime family." And it's not hard to see why. Directed by Neil Jordan (Mona Lisa, The Crying Game), The Borgias is a devilish, sometimes shocking look at a decidedly unconventional pope who, among other things, had a family, a mistress and ruthless methods to getting his way.

"It is very Godfather," says Feore, who plays the equally manipulative pope wannabe Cardinal Rovere. "You see Borgia's motivations. He wants to protect his family. He wants his kids to do well. And to do it, he's willing to kill people."

The actor says the moral ambiguities in The Borgias are such that he was under the belief his character was the "good guy" all through production.

"I saw Rovere as the shining hero of the piece. Then Neil comes up to me at the wrap party and asks me what it's like to be the bad guy."

Feore — who can currently be heard narrating History Channel's Museum Secrets — has another big costume epic set to premiere. In the highly anticipated 3-D summer blockbuster Thor, he plays Laufey, the Warrior King of the Frost Giants. Huh?

"I'm nine-and-a-half-feet tall and blue," laughs Feore, who spent hours in make-up for the role. "Director Kenneth Branagh ran the whole thing like a military operation. It's massive and massively cool."

The Borgias premieres this Sunday on Bravo! The movie Thor opens in theatres in May.

Sum of 4 years is 1 new album

It's been four years since Sum 41 last released an album, and the intervening years saw frontman Deryck Whibley endure a divorce from Avril Lavigne as well as a string of health concerns.

But he says the dark tone of the material on the band's new record, Screaming Bloody Murder, can't necessarily be traced to his personal life — in fact, he says he can't really trace the origin of any of the words on his latest disc.

"It's really hard to explain what anything's about, because I don't even know what it's about," Whibley said quietly behind a pair of sunglasses during a recent interview in Toronto.

"I was just writing words that were just in my head and it was over such a long period of time that I don't have a lot of recollection of writing a lot of these things — they're just there," he said.

And yet, these pitch-black lyrics — sample line from the wrenching ballad What am I to Say?:

"How could you be the better part of me? When we're only half of what we used to be today? Could you see this isn't what we need? And I'm leaving all the pieces how they fell? So goodbye, farewell" — seem to have originated from an especially tough period in Whibley's life.

WHO'S THE APRIL FOOL?

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

I've never understood the point of April Fool's Day. How did it ever become socially acceptable for it to be open season on the inattentive, the unaware and the gullible once a year?

Many rock bands get into the spirit of things, taking the opportunity to punk both fans and the media.

Among the best (worst?) is Tool. Back in 1997, an announcement flashed around the world that members of the band had been killed in a tour bus crash in Australia. Media outlets — including MTV — ran with the story until they realized what date it was. In 1999, rumours appeared about two new singles from the band: Anagram and Floopail. Those who spent the day searching for these songs didn't notice that Floopail is an anagram for April Fool. MTV got burned again in 2005 when singer Maynard James Keenan announced that he had found Jesus and was leaving the group to pursue a career in religion.

And Tool is far from alone. On April 1, 2010, Coldplay announced that like Britney, they were getting into the fragrance game, releasing a perfume called Angst, which was available in a bottle designed by producer Brian Eno. Strangely, it sold out through Coldplay's online store before anyone could make a purchase.

Metallica and Megadeth fans freaked out on April 1, 2009, when an online story insisted both Dave Mustaine and Jason Newsted would soon be rejoining Metallica in a massive example of letting bygones be bygones. The non-metal equivalent would be Jennifer Aniston accepting an invitation to move in with Brad and Angelina.

Be careful out there.

Lohan plans move to New York City

► Hopes to leave legal problems behind ► Looking for a place with her brother ► Has friends in the city

With one California legal drama done and another set to be decided next month, Lindsay Lohan is leaving the state behind and heading back to New York, her mom, Dina Lohan, says, according to Hollyscoop. "She will be in New York a lot more going forward. She's actively looking for places in the city with her younger brother Michael," Dina says. "She loves it here. And she has a lot of friends who already have places, so she might subtlet."

Baby for Banks by surrogate

PEOPLE. Actress Elizabeth Banks and her husband, Max Handelman, welcomed a baby boy, Felix, this week, born via surrogate. Banks announced on her blog,

"The one true hurdle I've faced in life is that I have a broken belly," Banks candidly writes. "After years of trying to get pregnant, exploring the range of fertility treatments, all unsuccessful, our journey led us to gestational surrogacy: We make a 'baby cake' and bake it in another woman's oven."

Banks describes Felix as "a very happy baby and a blessing on our life."

Cox, Hopkins getting together?

Courteney Cox was spotted this week cavorting in the Caribbean with her Cougar Town co-star, Josh Hopkins, and her daughter, Coco, according to People magazine.

The co-workers have dodged rumors of a more serious off-camera relationship since Cox separated from her husband, David Arquette. But while the vacation isn't work-related, Cox's rep insists, "The relationship is strictly platonic and they are away with a group of friends on vacation."

Add a dash of romance to dinner

► Impress your love with this Filet Mignon with Pomegranate Burgundy Sauce ► Although the meal looks elaborate, it's actually simple to make

How do you create a meal that is at once romantic?

To start, try this very simple Filet Mignon with Pomegranate Burgundy Sauce.

The recipe starts with getting just the right cut of beef.

The tenderloin that filet mignon is cut from is on the leaner side, with about seven grams of fat per 125-gram (four-ounce) portion. That's not bad, especially since a bit of fat will add a lot of flavour.

Normally, when preparing velvety, rich sauces, most recipes call for starting with a generous dollop of fatty butter or oil.

This recipe does away with that, instead starting with tangy pomegranate juice and dry red wine.

But the real secret here is using some veal demi-glace to add flavour, body and texture.

A good meat stock is made by roasting the bones, then simmering them for a long time with a variety of very aromatic vegetables.

At some point, the solids are stained out and the liquid is reduced until it has intense flavour and the gelatin from the bones has given it a smooth, almost viscous texture.

It's the rich flavour and velvety texture of this kind of stock that can give a sauce a luxurious, glossy feel, without the need to lard it with butter.

Best of all, you don't need to bother with all that roasting and simmering.

Excellent prepared demi-glace products are available at many grocers.

► Filet mignon is a great choice to serve during a romantic dinner for two.

Preparation:

1 Heat oven to 100 C (200 F). Season steaks with salt and pepper.

2 Heat a 25-cm (10-inch) cast-iron or other heavy skillet over medium for 2 minutes. Add 10 ml (2 tsp) of the oil and swirl to coat the bottom of the pan. Increase heat to medium-high.

3 Add steaks and cook 4 minutes per side for medium-rare. Transfer filets to ovenproof dish and place in heated oven (steaks will cook a bit more in the oven).

4 Return skillet to medium heat and add remaining 5 ml (1 tsp) oil and shallot. Sauté until shallot has softened, about 1 minute. Add wine and cook for 1 minute. Add demi-glace and pomegranate juice and increase heat to high to bring sauce to a boil. Cook, stirring occasionally, until sauce has reduced by half and thickened.

5 Spoon sauce over the filets and serve, garnished with chives and pomegranate seeds, if desired.

Ingredients:

- 2 beef filet mignon (125 g/4 oz each)
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) kosher salt
- Ground black pepper, to taste
- 15 ml (3 tsp) extra-virgin olive oil, divided
- 1 medium shallot, minced
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) dry red wine
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) pomegranate juice
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) veal demi-glace
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) chopped fresh chives
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) pomegranate seeds (optional)

Evoke the spirit of a changing season

When you have dogs, a backyard cleanup is less about leaf-raking and more about poop patrol. That thought came to me when a break in the winter weather saw me making my grounds more people friendly.

Of course, a fine beverage is the best reward for a nasty job well done. And a white wine with lots of thirst-quenching, tropical fruit flavour and aromatics evokes the season's spirit.

While something made from riesling or torrontés would be fine, Ironstone Vineyards' 2009 Obsession ($14.95 - $16.99) breaks the mold of the somewhat familiar by using the symphony grape — a cross between muscat of alexandria and grenache gris.

If it swims, clucks or is served in a bowl with a cream sauce, the clean acidity and ripe fruit components of this off-dry wine will make for a fine dinner partner. Salads, vegetables, shellfish and any dish that throws a bit of heat will also work like a charm with this unique palate cleanser.

Yesterday was the launch of Ricardo Larrivée's new line of smart kitchenwares coming to cooking stores this month. From comfortable chef's knives to versatile baking pans, Quebec's most famous TV chef has hit the shelves with a high-quality, affordably-priced line of kitchen wares at specialty cooking stores and Sears Canada.

What is your cooking philosophy? "I believe people cook for one reason; to love and be loved. There is nothing more gratifying than preparing a delicious meal or snack for family or friends. Everyone feels proud when they serve an easy-to-make meal that everybody in the family enjoys."

Are you a sweet-freak or savoury-crazy person? "I am definitely a sweet person. I love to bake special treats and I think my line of baking pans, bowls and utensils reflect my passion for everything sweet. From multi-use baking pans to great serving bowls, much thought and design was put into every piece to make sure that the items were comfortable and practical to use when creating special desserts."

List three ingredients that are must-haves in your kitchen. "That is very simple. Arborio rice as it can be flavoured in so many ways and is a great filler when feeding a family. Lemons. It's no secret that I love them and they can contribute to a sweet dish like lemon tarts or a savoury dish as in a simple salad dressing or marinade for meats. And parmesan cheese as it keeps forever in the fridge, adds a unique salty flavour to many recipes and the rhine can even be used to flavour soups and stews."

► Edmonton racks up 16th-straight loss to Wild in Saint Paul Minnesota goalie Niklas Backstrom ended a six-start winless streak, beating his favourite opponent in the Wild's 4-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers on Thursday night.

Defenceman Tom Gilbert and Linus Omark each had power-play goals — a rarity for Edmonton's struggling special teams unit — but the last-place Oilers fell to 0-8-3 in their last 11 games.

Antti Miettinen, Marek Zidlicky, Brad Staubitz and Martin Havlat scored for Minnesota. Backstrom has never lost to the Oilers, improving to 14-0 in his career against them.

With both teams out of the playoff picture, this game was all about streaks. The Wild beat Edmonton at home for the 16th time in a row, matching the longest current run of consecutive home wins against one team in the NHL. They've outscored the Oilers 58-21 during the stretch.

Nikolai Khabibulin started his seventh straight game in goal without a win. He was unlucky at first, with Miettinen's goal glancing off Ladislav Smid's skate, and Zidlicky's hitting off Jeff Petry's in a span of 35 seconds midway through the first period.

Staubitz chipped one off the post and past Khabibulin in the second period for his second goal all season. Then Havlat zipped a slapshot past his glove for a 4-0 lead late in the middle frame. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crosby began individual workouts March 14 and has reported no setbacks.

"It's the same thing with every step, make sure that you don't get symptoms," Crosby said. "Obviously, it's just one day. Try and get through each step." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

Aries March 21-April 20 Others may go out of their way to prove that you are wrong, but you're having none of it. You know momentum is on your side, whatever the facts might say. You really don't have to care what others believe.

Taurus April 21-May 21 Resist the temptation to look at the world as if everything that happens is a disaster. Focus only on good news. There's plenty of it, if you care to look.

Gemini May 22-June 21 Check the small print carefully because while Mercury (your ruler) is moving retrograde, others may try to convince you that you've got the best deal when, in fact, they will profit a lot more than you.

Cancer June 22-July 22 The more others try to persuade you to do something that you aren't convinced is in your best interests, the more you must resist. Stand up for yourself.

Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Cosmic activity in your fellow Fire sign of Aries will fill your head with big ideas but not all of those ideas will be practical. So, don't get carried away. New opportunities are in the process of developing. Wait.

Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Someone you usually get along with may say something a hurtful today, but don't let it get to you. He or she just doesn't share your ability to see how easily ill-chosen words can offend.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You have nothing to prove and everything to look forward to. Even if you find that a bit hard to believe, changes over the weekend and early next week will convince you that life is still very much worth living.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 If someone shamelessly flatters you, it's a sign he or she is after something — most likely your money. Don't be taken in by his or her honeyed words.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You may be worried that your run of good fortune is coming to an end but nothing could be further from the truth. Both the moon and Mars will bring more goodies your way in the next few days.

Sudoku

How to play

Fill in the grid, so that every row, every column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9. There is no math involved. You solve the puzzle with reasoning and logic.
